

Options for Revision of 2012-13 School Calendar

The 2012-13 school calendar had three snow days built into it. These days were built into the end of the school year to be used if needed. As you know we had to cancel school on September 19th due to electrical issues, and October 29 and 30th due to Hurricane Sandy. Because of this the last day of school for students will be June 14th. We have a few options:

Option 1

Do nothing and hope we don't miss any school days between now and the end of the school year. If days are missed, tack them onto the end of the calendar.

Option 2

Designate some of the days we have scheduled to be off or in-service days as 'snow days to be used if necessary'. This means that between now and February 18, if we miss a day we would make it up on February 18 (President's Day). March 27th (In-Service Day), March 28th and April 1 could also be used 'if necessary' in the same fashion. In this way we have built 4 snow days into the calendar. The end of the school year would not be impacted and would end on June 14th unless we were to miss more than 4 days.

Option 3

Convert February 18th, March 27th, and March 28th and/or April 1 into student days thereby making up the days we missed in the fall and adjust the end of the school year based upon whether or not we miss any more days.
