The U.S. Army All-American Marching Band has been a fixture at the U.S Army All-American Bowl since 2008. Selected by the National Association for Music Education in cooperation with All American Games and Drum Corps International, the band features the 125 top marching band members from across the United States. Interested students audition during the spring of their junior year and find out about their selection following summer. Members receive a selection tour stop at their school during the fall of their senior year and an all-expenses paid trip to bowl week in during January of the their senior year.

During bowl week, the band members receive instruction from top collegiate, high school and drum and bugle corps instructors from across the country as well as educational sessions with members of the U.S. Army Field Band.
